In Women's World.

With astonishing rapidity the fight against the sale of intoxicating liquor is sweeping over the country, says the September Delinquent. In the south, state after state has enacted laws absolutely closing all the saloons within its borders. After Jan. 1, 1909, there will not be a legal saloon in Georgia, Alabama, Mississippi or Oklahoma.
 North Carolina may also be dry by that time; half of South Carolina, a large part of Florida, all but four cities in Tennessee, and nearly all of Kentucky are in the same situation. Virginia, Maryland and Delaware are moving in the same direction, and tending toward state prohibition. Indiana has taken steps toward it, and each new election sees more townships in Illinois shifted to the dry party, and in other states the struggle is not yet so successful, but already half the people and two-thirds of the territory of the United States are embraced in the now rapidly growing prohibition districts.

In this struggle women have taken a remarkable part, and they are reaping a remarkable reward. There is a new form of campaign, and it is different.
 There has been little or no hysterical agitation, but rather prosaic comparison of figures to show how much better off the dry states are than the wet.
 And the women, to whom prohibition means infinitely more than to the men, have furnished what, except payment was necessary, by looking about the new serving temperance drinks to the voters, and endeavoring to convince them that a vote against the saloon is a vote for the home, and perhaps, most of all, for the clean administration of the public schools. They have had to present figures, too. Saloon men have shown.

To Dye Carpets—Prepare a lot of strong boiling dye in a boiler, or other receptacle that will hold all you will need so that the color will be exactly the same. With this fill a garden springing pot. Lay the carpet on an old floor, and sprinkle it evenly with the hot liquid. Then take a stiff scrubby broom, and scrub the color well into the carpet; leave it for several days. If the color is not as a line unless nearly dry, as the color will spread unevenly. You may use a vacant room in the house, protecting the baseboards with paper, since if the carpet is a thick one, it will not soak through. Or it can be dyed on the grass, as light showers will not injure it.

The great mother-heart of America's good women has responded nobly to the appeal of the homeless child. With it have responded the hearts of the happy children of loving parents—offering, in their sympathy for the little brothers and sisters whose stories have been told, their playthings, their money, and a share in their most precious possessions—their mothers' love!

Among the letters that come daily to The Delinquent office, there is almost sure to be one in a childish hand, sometimes printed letter by letter upon wofully crooked lines drawn by chubby fingers, breathing in every labored effort the tenderness and sympathy of a loving heart. "Want a little brother or sister?" This is the cry of the little one. And, through The Delinquent, the appeal has been answered.

Tony and Fritz found their new homes through the plea of a boy and girl who wanted brothers; Marion went to a little girl who needed a sister; while Jack's foster-brothers assure us that they would not take a hundred dollars for him.

There is a pathos about the home with but one child, that is akin to the tragedy of the home that is childless.
 And the child who is alone feels it keenly. The plea, "I want a brother," has opened way for hundreds of homeless little ones.

If the pipe of your kitchen sink becomes clogged, place a cloth over the drain, being careful to hold the sides of the hand and tips of the fingers firmly on the sink. Allow water to the depth of one inch to run into the sink, then raise and lower the palm of the hand until you think the impediment has been removed. After this, pour a quart of scalding water, and soda down the pipe. This will carry away any waste that remains.
